

Indigenous Housing Development Initiative

The 7 Generations Housing Initiative is made up of grass roots indigenous community members from treaty territories across Canada. The management board consists of qualified professionals who will manage and oversee the development of projects and the future operations of these vital projects as they progress.

The 7 Generations Housing Initiative has been in the making for several years and was formed because off-reserve housing has become a major topic of discussion for indigenous people across Canada. Since its inception our team has been collaborating with multiple First Nations, government advisors, industry consultants and key community members who have shown strong support and great interest for these projects.

The mission for 7 Generations Housing Initiative is to increase the supply of affordable housing for Indigenous people living off-reserve and to provide opportunities for home ownership. This project involves the construction of new affordable rental and rent-to-own housing units off-reserve for members of First Nation, Metis and Inuit communities. The project will create meaningful jobs, update existing infrastructure and contribute back to the local economy.

As we continue to pursue our strongly held goal of rent-to-ownership for off-reserve housing, we are preparing to submit an additional funding request to Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC), Provincial Governments, Municipalities and Indigenous Communities to support the development and construction phase of this program. The planning phase is already in progress and we anticipate the creation of housing units in municipalities across Canada. In the future 7 Generations plans on expanding the Initiative to other Canadian and US regions with high density indigenous populations.

We are looking to partner with all levels of industry, government and finance to improve the prospects of rental to home ownership opportunities for indigenous people. Any expressions of interest from your team for this initiative would be greatly appreciated and go a long way to support indigenous home ownership.

For more information please contact:

info@7generation.ca

